

FECCA Congratulates Former Head on Disability Award

FECCA today congratulated one of its long-standing Executive team members on his receipt of an award from the National Disability Alliance (NEDA).

Chairperson of FECCA, Ms Mary Patetsos, said that the award of the NEDA Medal to a former head of FECCA, Pino Migliorino, was a great honour.

“Pino was an outstanding Chairperson of FECCA and he has now been recognised for the great work he’s done to help people of Culturally and Linguistically Diverse (CALD) background who live with a disability,” Ms Patetsos said.

She said that FECCA under Mr Migliorino had worked with NEDA to drive the formation of the National Disability Insurance Agency (NDIA) CALD Disability Reference Group. This advisory group brings together key civil society stakeholders across Australia to advise the NDIA on issues and concerns relevant to the CALD disability community.

“We congratulate and honour Pino for his work and for receiving this award,” Ms Patetsos said.

“People of CALD background who also live with a disability face unique challenges and it is people like Pino who have worked tirelessly to give them better access to services and a better life.”

FECCA is the national peak body representing Australians from CALD backgrounds. FECCA’s role is to advocate and promote issues on behalf of its constituency to government, business and the broader community.
