

Mainstream versus ethno-specific community aged care services: it's not an 'either or'

Author/s: Radermacher, H. Feldman, S. Browning, C. | Year: 2009 | Publication type: Journal article | Peer reviewed: | Topic area/s: General Care

Reference:

Key Words:

literature review, service access

Research aim:

The aim of this review is to critique the literature related to the delivery of community aged care services to people from CALD backgrounds.

Results/Conclusion:

The merits of a partnership model approach are highlighted, in addition to key points for future policy and planning. Understanding the complexities of delivering services to older people from CALD backgrounds is challenging, and requires a stronger empirical base.

Implications:

Cultural Group(s):

CALD

Location of study:

Age group:

Number included in study:

N/A

Type of participants:

Research approach:

Type of data:

Literature review

Secondary data sources used:

Specific scales or analytical techniques used:

Implications/ Recommendations:

Notes: