migrant nurses, effect on origin country

Research aim:

examines aspects of the experiences of migrant nurses-both permanent and temporary-in Australia and considers the impact of Australia's recruitment drive on the health-care services of less-developed sending countries.

Results/Conclusion:

Implications:

Health workers have a clear human right to emigrate in search of a better life. Yet people in source countries hard hit by the exodus of health workers also have a right to health in their own countries'
